Course Content and Presentation

3. There were no changes in the content or presentation of the course. However, the usual MWF schedule was changed to MWTh so as to make 1A-07 available for the Mid-Career class on Friday.

Speakers

4. [REDACTED] DC/CI, made the introductory talk. Using the Oswald case as his illustration, he emphasized the importance of individual judgement in dealing with CS Records. He also drew extensively on his experience in the developmental stage of our records system to show how it had been made responsive to changes in the CS mission.

Student Critiques

6. The five students who are not continuing with CS Records II were given critique sheets and asked to send them in. Their comments will be included with the critiques of the students in CS Records II. So far as can be judged from class participation, the students were interested and alert. Almost one third of them were professionally involved with CS Records in one way or another, and there was a good deal of argument during the breaks.

Chief Instructor's Comments

7. Possibly because of changes in the air-conditioning system, room 1A-07 was colder than I have ever known it. The first day was acutely uncomfortable. The men loaned their jackets to the women, which helped somewhat and produced an informal atmosphere, but everyone was glad when the day was over. Carrying the personnel freeze to this extreme is ridiculous.
